Program/Occasion: International Yoga Day

Date: 21/6/2021

The NSS Cell of Bodoland University organised a four days programme from 21st-24th June 2021 to observe the International Yoga Day in collaboration with the Art of Living Foundation. The International Day of Yoga is observed on 21st June, 2021 every year since its inception in the United Nations General Assembly in 2015. In regard to the theme of the event which was, “BE WITH YOGA, BE AT HOME” a webinar was conducted to observe the International Day of Yoga where esteemed guests, faculties from different colleges, members of the NSS units were present along with the Vice-Chancellor and faculty members of the university.

The webinar began with the welcome speech by Prof Sujit Deka at 9:30am. Prof Deka is the programme coordinator of the NSS Cell, Bodoland University and he is also the HoD of Geography. Prof Deka gave a very warm welcome to all the participants with his very humble and kind words which were followed by the inaugural speech by the honourable Vice-Chancellor of Bodoland University Prof Laishram Ladu Singh.

Prof Singh is an eminent personality in the field of population statistics and a man with vast knowledge and experience. He shared his urge for the introduction of yoga in all the educational institutions for its numerous benefits. After the inauguration of the programme, a yoga session was conducted which was led by Mr M. Rajaque Rahman. Mr Rahman is a senior faculty in the Art of Living Foundation. The Art of Living Foundation is an educational and humanitarian NGO which offers programmes based in breathing techniques, meditation and yoga. Mr Rahman has been an editor with top publications such as The Economic Times, Bengaluru, India and The Business Today in Muscat, Oman. He has also been the media coordinator of the Art of Living from 2005-2008. Mr Rahman commits to spreading the essence and wisdom of yoga, meditation and Indian spirituality to all sections. Mr Rajaque Rahman shared his immense knowledge on yoga and its benefits and the science of how yoga plays its role in providing protection against the COVID-19. A great orator and more so a better yoga teacher, Mr Rahman in his yoga session showed some very basic and easy but extremely important yoga steps which one can practice while being seated. He very patiently and kindly taught all the steps and also explained the science behind whilst stating their advantages. He gave special attention to the students and displayed the yoga steps that help the release of stress and fatigue with increase in the focus and concentration.

Yoga with m Rajaque Rahman

Scientific researchers have proved yoga to reduce stress and tension and increase the physical and mental health. With COVID-19 taking a toll on everyone's mental and physical health, this year the International Yoga Day puts its focus on the wellbeing of the society while it is still recovering from the impact of COVID-19. Mr Rahman after an hour of yoga session, spared some of his precious time and answered the questions patiently that were raised by the audience. All the participants in the webinar were greatly benefitted and they expressed their gratitude to him.

After the interactive session, it was followed by the vote of thanks which was given by Mr Solomon Islary, Asstt. Prof. of Department of Political Science and the programme officer of the NSS Cell, Bodoland University. He thanked all the dignitaries that were present in the event and also the technical coordinator Dr. Manoj Deka and Mr Bhargab Jyoti Kachari who were instrumental in the smooth conduction of the programme. Mr Islary also thanked the NSS programme coordinator and its members for taking this initiative to observe Yoga Day while being at home. Lastly he conveyed his gratitude to all the participants present in the webinar for their support and cooperation.

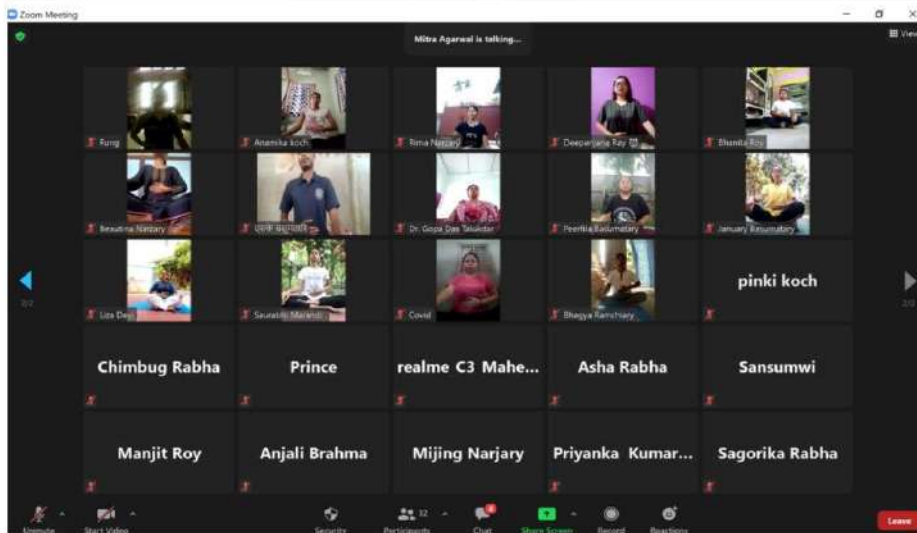

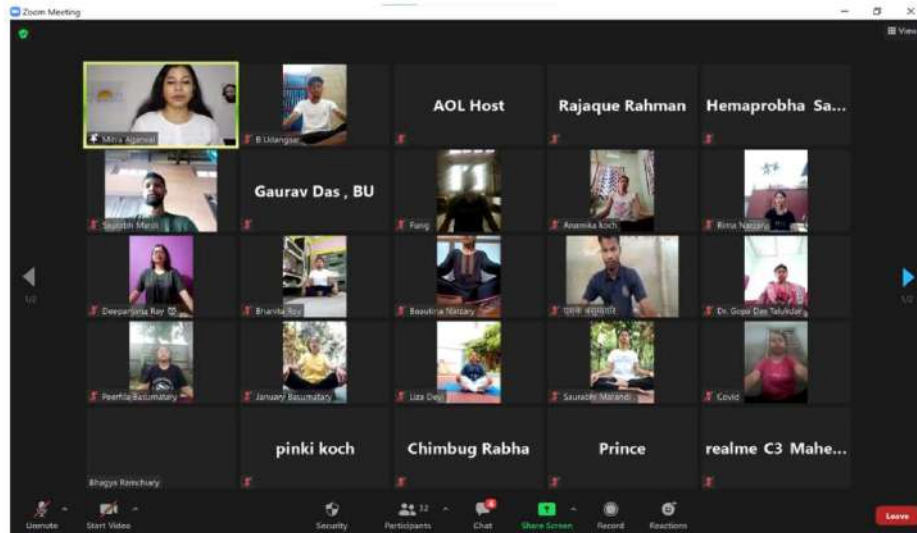

For the next three days (22nd, 23rd and 24th June), virtual yoga session led by Mr M. Rajaque Rahman was conducted every morning at 9:30 hours which was attended by a large audience. The four days programme held by the NSS Cell, Bodoland University has been a great success. In these desperate times where we are demanded to stay indoors, virtual events as such can prove to be very beneficial.
