With the alarming growth of the global population, the proportionate growth of food and nutrition is always a prime concern. The issue becomes even grimmer with the depletion of potent agricultural land and other resources. One more issue that started finding importance among discussion of different fora is solid waste management, including agricultural waste. Mushroom cultivation is found to be such as bolete, puffball, stinkhorn, and morel.

The act of consuming mushrooms (mycophagy) dates back to ancient times. Edible mushrooms can appear either below ground (hypogeous) or above ground (epigeous) & edibility may be defined by criteria that include the absence of poisonous effects on humans and desirable taste and aroma. A popular answer to all the above concerns stands as quality food requires less land and can be a tool to manage agricultural waste. Diversification in any farming system imparts sustainability. Mushrooms are one such component that not only imparts diversification but also help in addressing the problems of quality food, health, and environmental sustainability. Consumption of mushrooms on a daily basis boosts the health of the consumer.

The attributes are good for the heart (no cholesterol), low-calorie food (good for diabetic patients), prevents cancer (especially prostate and breast cancer by arresting the action of 5-alpha reductase and aromatase, these enzymes are responsible for the growth of cancerous tumor), anti-ageing property (the polysaccharide from Mushroom are potent scavengers of superoxide free radical), regulates the digestive system, strengthen immunity. Mushroom like Trametes versicolor synthesizes Polysaccharide-K (Kresin), which is a leading anti-cancer drug. Mushroom is the fruiting body of fungi visible outside and can be seen by the naked eye. Biologically, Mushroom describes various gilled fungi, with or without stems, and the term is used even more generally to describe both the fleshy fruiting bodies and leathery fruiting bodies. Morphology deviating from the standard usually has more specific names such as bolete, puffball, stinkhorn and morel.

Despite financial hardship, the library has been trying its best to develop modern library services to provide sufficient knowledge resources to the University's academic community effectively. In 2015, the Central Library was named after a renowned bureaucrat, poet and dramatist, Padmashree Madaram Brahma. Since then, the Central Library of Bodoland University has been renamed as “Padmashree Madaram Brahma Central Library”.

KOHA has been installed as Integrated Library Management Software (ILMS) to manage and organise library systems. The Central Library is an RFID enabled and automated library integrated with open-source ILMS i.e., KOHA to provide computerized services to Bodoland University academic community at large. The RFID based automation system facilitates Self-Service KIOSK, Anti-Theft Detection System and Flap Barrier. The library holds more than 30812 print books, more than 1600 E-Journals, JSTOR and other resources like M.Phil. & Ph.D. Dissertation, Project work reports etc.

The library has a Digital Library section having 17 dedicated Personal Computers fully with high-speed internet connectivity, enabling library users to access various subscribed resources and browse the world of the web in search of various resources. With the implementation of Web-OPAC, the holdings of the library can be viewed by anybody from anywhere in the world 24×7.

PMBCL BU has successfully implemented the Remote Access Platform called Remotex to enable library users to access subscribed E-Resources from the comfort of their places wherever they go at any time, i.e., 24×7. PMBCL has also successfully implemented its digital repository in the name and style of Bodoland University Digital Library using DSpace software. This library will play a vital role in building an institutional repository of various resources of the University like Old Question papers, Thesis & Dissertations, Annual Reports, policy documents, etc., in electronic format, which will be accessible by anybody at anytime from anywhere in the world.

A dedicated and independent dynamic website has been designed and launched to provide single stop access to all the above portals/platforms. The library is also involved in conducting various programmes like user awareness, workshops, seminars, conferences, book exhibitions, career awareness, etc., in contributing to the University's academic and general activities.

I. ESTABLISHING THE CENTRAL LIBRARY

The first step towards establishing the library was taken in 2009 with a single room in the old administrative building. The library worked without library staff member/s for about 4 years. The formal functioning of the library started in May 2013 with the joining of one library professional and one Library Assistant. In August 2013, the Central Library was shifted to its present location with about 9254 sq. ft floor space.

The library has implemented Library management System Software SOUL2.0 with a barcode-based circulation system. The issue/return of the books is now being converted into an automated system. The university's academic community is provided with necessary reference/information services based on their specific need. In addition, the library extends reference and internet services to the local academic and civil society members.

Internet facility is also provided in the library through the 1gbps NKN line. In addition to the online resources available through these consortia, University has also taken an initiative to procure/subscribed selective new resources in 2017. Users can selectively photocopy the required books/journals articles, etc., through an outsourced photocopy centre outside the Central Library.
