Luxon survives another leadership vote

WELLINGTON (New Zealand), Aug 12: New Zealand Prime Minister Christopher Luxon said Wednesday that he survived a leadership vote prompted by a challenge from his defence minister less than three months before an election.

The vote took place during a hastily convened meeting of Luxon's centre-right National Party lawmakers at Parliament in Wellington, which was held behind closed doors and ran for more than three hours.

New Zealand election

Luxon then emerged flanked by his lawmakers to give a brief statement and departed without taking any questions from reporters.

"There was a confidence vote in my leadership this morning at our caucus meeting," he said. "I had the full support of our caucus and our caucus is united and it is determined to win this election."

Luxon didn't say how many lawmakers had voted for him to continue in the job, although such ballots are usually a secret.

Hours later, he said in a statement that the vote was prompted by a leadership challenge from his defence minister, Chris Penk, adding that he had removed Penk from his ministerial portfolios.

On Wednesday night, Luxon's office distributed a statement from Penk, in which the challenger said he would quit Parliament altogether.

The vote was the second Luxon had called about his own leadership since April and leaves lingering questions coming so close to the election scheduled for November 7. – AP

Model housing colonies planned

Highlighting the extent of destruction in areas such as Nepali Khuti and Kamal Basti, Sarma said several houses had been completely washed away. The government is in discussions with organisations and other governments about introducing model housing schemes in the worst-affected areas.

He said Rs 142 crore has so far been collected in the Chief Minister's Relief Fund, including contributions from around 26,000 micro-donors. The money, he said, would be used for rehabilitation initiatives, including model housing colonies.

The government is also in talks with the National Dairy Development Board to explore supplying cattle and establishing milk-processing centres, to develop areas such as Nepali Khuti into milk-production hubs.

Restoring natural drainage channels

Sarma said the government was also pursuing measures aimed at improving the natural drainage of floodwaters. To clear water from Jerenga Pathar, the Namdang river is being cleared to restore its natural flow.

The government is also working to rejuvenate degraded rivulets and channels whose deterioration has contributed to the blockage of floodwater dispersal, he said.

Meanwhile, the government on Wednesday released Rs 11.28 crore for repairs to 494 Anganwadi centres across four flood-affected districts.

Although the flood situation has improved, three revenue circle areas in Sivasagar remain inundated. Fifteen relief camps are currently sheltering around 4,000 people in the district.

Around 90 per cent of affected schools have reopened, while the remaining institutions are expected to resume operations after August 15. Affected Naamghars will also receive Rs 1.5 lakh each by August 20.

Damage assessment to continue till September 15

The State government has so far provided Rs 15,000 each to 64,891 affected families, while another 31,200 families are expected to receive the one-time assistance.

Sarma said a three-layer rapid damage assessment is being carried out. Assessments of around 9,525 families have so far produced a damage estimate of about Rs 150 crore.

The first round of assessment will be completed by August 30, after which a draft will be published to allow objections and claims. A second round of verification will continue until September 15, with fresh surveyors checking the initial assessments.

The Chief Minister said the total damage could cross Rs 1,000 crore. He added that PM Modi had assured that there would be no shortage of funds for genuine victims and that adequate assistance would be provided.

Insurance, loan relief reviewed

Sarma said around 20 insurance companies are operating across the four affected districts and that 1,700 people have so far filed insurance claims. He appealed to affected residents to submit their claims at the earliest, saying insurance companies were keen to settle genuine claims.

Khandu assures ...

"Ultimately, both the states have to remain together," Sarma said, expressing the hope that the remaining issues could be resolved within a year.

He said the Survey of India was in the process of erecting permanent boundary pillars in areas where agreements had already been reached. The regional committees constituted to address the remaining disputes have also been reconstituted, he added.

Reacting to the firing incident that left several people injured, Sarma said the Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister should order an inquiry, identify those responsible and take action against them.

The incident has also triggered tension over a blockade launched by the TMPK against Arunachal Pradesh.

Sarma sought to play down the possibility of a prolonged confrontation, stressing the close social and cultural ties between communities on both sides of the border. "Misings and Adis are like brothers; they are from the same lineage," he said.

Sarma said Assam minister Ranoj Pegu and the Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister had held discussions on the issue and expressed the hope that the dialogue would lead to the withdrawal of the blockade.

"I think they will discuss and withdraw the blockade. I am hopeful a solution will emerge. It is a temporary setback and we will overcome it," he said.

Sarma maintained that the recent flare-up should not derail the broader process of reconciliation, saying both states would ultimately have to find a way to settle the remaining disputes through dialogue.

"The State is duly bound to ascertain whether those contributions reached their intended beneficiaries," he said.

Sarma also alleged that some people have made false claims about donating money for flood relief.

The Chief Minister said the government would verify the relief efforts and recognise those who have genuinely contributed to helping flood-affected communities.

"We will felicitate those who have actually helped us," Sarma said, adding that the government would seek reports from Circle Officers and Sub-Divisional Officers (SDOs) to establish who has carried out genuine relief work.

The monitoring, he said, is aimed at ensuring that funds collected in the name of Assam's flood victims actually reach those affected by the floods.
