

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

M.PHIL COURSE OUTCOME

COURSE OUTCOME:

1. PAPER I: Course Code 701: Research Methodology

CO-1: After completion of this course, students will have a basic foundation on Scientific Research in Social Science.

CO-2: Gives an understanding on reciprocal relationship between theory and research and application of theory to build a strong research base.

CO-3: Demonstrate knowledge of research design and its proper application in individual research work.

CO-4: Perform literature reviews using print and online database.

CO-5: Identify, explain, compare, and prepare the key elements of a research proposal or a research report.

CO-6: Compare and contrast qualitative and quantitative research paradigms, and explain the use of each.

CO-7: Describe sampling methods, measurement scales and instruments, and appropriate uses of it.

CO-8: Understanding different methods and tools of data collection for application.

CO-9: Knowledge on statistical tools in social science, like- SPSS for performing statistical analysis.

2. PAPER II: Course Code 702: Political Theory

CO-1: The course will give an idea about the basics of Political Science who come from other disciplines as research is inter-disciplinary in its nature.

CO-2: Gives an overview on State and its manifestation.

CO-4: Understanding basic concepts of Rights, Liberty, Equality, Justice and Citizenship that may help in theorizing the research as a whole, and related to the research topic in specific.

CO-5: Developing a debate on State and Sovereignty in the 21st Century and its changing role in the context of Globalisation.

CO-6: It focuses on new trends in Political Theory, like- ecologism, feminism, multiculturalism etc.

CO-7: Evaluating the major debates in Marxism, Fascism, Nazism and End of Ideology.

3. PAPER III: Course Code 703: Human Rights

CO-1: This course gives an overview of Human Rights with its evolution from theoretical and empirical point of view.

CO-2: Introduces the students with the initiatives of United Nations at International, Regional and Local level for the protection and promotion of Human Rights.

CO-3: Understanding of Constitutional, Legal and Institutional framework from Indian Perspective in relation to protection and promotion of human rights.

CO-4: Gives a picture of violation of human rights as a whole, and of vulnerable groups in particular, by both the state and non-state actors.

CO-5: After completion of this course, students will be able to develop critical thinking to do research in multiple aspects in relation to human rights.

4. PAPER IV: Course Code 704: Select Contemporary Theories and Issues

CO-1: It aims at expanding the horizons of research and teaching India and North East India.

CO-2: Develops a holistic understanding of Indian Politics and Political System.

CO-3: The researcher will be able to understand the socio-political and cultural aspects of the region with the understanding of identity, regionalism, party politics, political culture, political socialization, role of civil society and other pressure groups.

CO-4: Understand the issues of research in public administration.

CO-5: Demonstrate the integrative knowledge, skills and ethics necessary for responsible administration.

CO-6: Opens up rural development as a major area of research.

5. PAPER V: Course Code 705: Politics of North East India

CO-1: To bring the region to the centre of national discourses, the syllabus aims to focus on issues relating to NE India.

CO-2: Students will develop their understanding on Ethnicity and Identity from both theoretical and empirical perspective.

CO-3: Gives a glimpse on diversity and the diverse socio-political and cultural practices of the people of North East India.

CO-4: Demonstrates on the issues and problems of the people of North East India with their uniqueness that may create a situation of doing research on such aspects.

6. PAPER VI: Course Code 706: Seminar Paper

CO-1: Students with this course will be able to develop critical thinking, research and communication skills as application of research methodology.

CO-2: This paper is an initiation towards the process of research applying the proper methodology with all technicalities.

CO-3: Develops the presentation skill of the researcher.

CO-4: Open up the thinking to find out the research topic.